Bachna Ae Haseeno is a Hindi-language romantic comedy film directed by Siddharth Anand, whose previous projects include the commercially successful films such as Parinda, Chupke Chupke, Dil Hai Ke Manta Nahin and Love Shobhaa De. Bachna Ae Haseeno, co-written by Anand and Ashwini Dheer and based on a story by Maninder Kaur.In a small village the dreaded army gets back. The Indian army lost its 8th Battalion, with the people of the village as well as the army's own people demanding punishment for the crime. The army pushes the civilians into the river, raping and killing many of them. Meanwhile, the village headman has been sent back to the village after being held prisoner for a year, and he is no longer interested in keeping peace.He and the army get into a bloody struggle, but the army prevails, both politically and militarily. And the army settles down for a long time of peace, the headman being the one to demand it. The army loses its headman, and the villagers vote for the army's new headman, Lieutenant Johny Bawra. Bawra and his gang rape the village headman's wife, and her father shoots him, the two warring sides agree to be friends again, and peace in the village is restored. But, in this peace, there is an atmosphere of simmering hatred and mistrust on both sides.The army and the villagers are both under the control of the corrupt village headman, who is very influential. When the headman's daughter falls in love with a soldier from the 8th Battalion, she threatens to tell the army about the village headman's crime if her lover does not comply with her demands. The army headman also meets the same fate as the headman of the village. She gets a marriage proposal from the army headman, and the villagers are all for it. The war for the control of the village is about to begin.This is a love story about the villagers of a village, and their efforts to bring peace to the village. Bachna Ae Haseeno is a love story about the character of Kabir
