Charts: So, this suggests that some sort of connection is still active and that the auction got to a point where it might be purchased. Recent Stats About Prankpay The new data is also available on the PrankPay website in the "Stats" section, however, the stats are much older than the data offered on here. Still, we got a full day of analytics data. After an initial downtrend that started yesterday at 7PM UTC, we are now back at support and could possibly see an upside test of the 1. Here are the stats for the whole day:. In short, as of 8:00 PM UTC today, the number of paid orders was rising from 0 to upwards of 10 every minute. Although this might seem like some coincidence, the price of the order book did seem to be consolidating around 8,200 USD. Like, I think this time it was just a situation of your fake google bot messing up and not actually sending in the right money to pay for the orders. Check out the price drop during that period of time right after you enter your Bitcoin address. After the exchange occurs, prices are back to the normal 1. The graph below, is another interesting way to see the actual activity on the platform. We can see that the maximum traffic occurs at 7 PM UTC. You can also see that the price of the order book fluctuates during the day. For example, there is a dip from 6 PM UTC to 7: In the end, we had a total of 4, paid orders at the time of writing this post. The top-5 states were:. Although, one of the reasons why these stats are so inaccurate, is because they are gathered from the top 5 states. Sending orders from these areas is a lot easier than from other states. The states with the least activity are:. This is because the process of sending orders from these states is quite a bit harder than from the top 5 states. This is partly because they are almost never included in the top 5 states, and partly because the average order size is lower. However, it is interesting that the top states are also the states where the price of the order book has been very stable during the day. For example, take a look at the stats for 7 PM UTC on:. The state with the highest number of total orders, is 2d92ce491b
