When we get updated with the half-duplex Samsung Galaxy Note 8, there will be many questions with regards to its hardware. The smartphone will be having a co-processor called Exynos 9610 which would enable 6G class LTE connectivity. The other customizations are the possible differences, the button positions, the size of the display and many more. In this article, we would share some information about its probable specs and images of its front and rear panels. Although the Note 8 is a plastic-bodied smartphone, it appears there will be no notch on the display. This is based on its images leaked on the Galaxy Note 8 Co-engineered with Qualcomm Snapdragon 855 SoC, the smartphone will have a display of 6.3" with full HD+ resolution of 1440 x 2960 pixels and pixel density of 441 ppi. It appears that the sensor of the Galaxy Note 8 will be 12MP + 16MP combo, and the dual-camera will be a 12MP + 12MP sensor with f/1.7 aperture. Galaxy Note 8 Image Leaked; Exynos 9610 Co-Processor Likely According to the latest news, Samsung is planning to introduce a smartphone which would be full of fun. Well, this is the Galaxy Note 8 and it will have tons of technology embedded in it. The device is expected to be launched on August 7th, 2018. And according to some info, it might be Samsung's first smartphone with fingerprint sensor on the rear panel instead of the usual Touch ID under the display screen. Commandos 3: Destination Berlin 3.Q: How to check the first element inside a Repeater for a specific value with jQuery? This is a continuation of my previous question. In that previous question I was able to use jQuery to locate and return the index of the first row in a Repeater. I can't figure out how to get the value of the row, however. The following code I am trying to use returns the correct values... var status = $("#").find("tr:odd:first").text();

What I am trying to do is use that first value to populate a drop down list with values that are in a database. So, I need to be able to return the first element of a Repeater that is odd and contains the first value. This returns the first element of the first row of the Repeater... `var status = $("#").find("tr").first().text();` But I'm not sure how to use jQuery to locate the first odd element that contains the first item in the database. The "tr" selector works fine but to find a first odd element I think I will need to do something like this `$("# tr:odd:first").first().val();` I'm sure that is wrong, but my attempts at finding a way to correctly locate that item have not worked. Any help would be greatly appreciated. A: You can use jQuery to get the selected item in the drop down list, then use that
