The Texas Longhorns continue to suffer through the downturn in recruiting and have their first FBS commitment of the Jim Mora era to replace Jordan Spence on the Plains. ESPN 300 defensive end/tight end Charles Omenihu (Elliot, TX/Westfield HS) will enroll at the University of Texas on August 1st. ESPN Recruiting Analyst David Hooker calls Texas' loss of commitment disappointing, since Omenihu was one of the Longhorns' top targets. "Obviously I'm disappointed that Charles has decided to move on," Hooker said. "I had talked to his family and the Omenihu family for a long time before the official process started. I was obviously pushing him hard, but I think he was comfortable with where he was at. I respect him for that. It is what it is. He is 100 percent committed to Texas now." Omenihu is ranked as the fifth defensive end in the nation by the 247Sports Composite. Texas is the only FBS team to offer him a scholarship during the early signing period. Texas has plenty of prospects on their board and will add some to their class next year. Hooker said they can't allow their minds to become too far off the field. "Our Popsicles look like they're from the future." That was the verdict of many parents and kids at the annual summer festival held in Woodstock, Ont. It's the third annual Taste of Sarnia Summer Festival this week, a bi-annual event put on by the Town of Sarnia. There will be food, entertainment and activities. But there's a different element at this year's Taste of Sarnia this year. A robotics competition. Rabbi Don Kim's Boy Scout Troop 86 in Sarnia will display their hand-built Botanic Gardens Popsicle Ice Cube Robot, an educational version of the Contour Robotics robot that's dominated the world robotics landscape for more than a year. The Botanic Gardens Popsicle Ice Cube Robot has been featured at a few NASA events. Kim said they've been working on the project for four years. They've designed it to resemble the Botanic Gardens at the Sarnia Public Library. They'll be competing in the Pro/Am category in the RoboCup Junior league. "Our five years old was our first

Q: How to enable ContextMenu mode for SurfaceView? I have SurfaceView and i want to open context menu on mouse click. How to enable it? A: It is possible on Android 2.2+ devices. Make sure your activity is an activity, not a service. Or, try setting a touch listener on the SurfaceView, and have that listener call through to the activity. You'll have to read up a bit on touch events (and try some sample code). A: just use simple callback method for the same (also custom menu):

public void surfaceCreated(SurfaceHolder holder) { // TODO Auto-generated method stub openContextMenu(mSurfaceView.getHolder()); } public void openContextMenu(final View target) { Toast.makeText(target.getContext(), "Context Menu is open", Toast.LENGTH_SHORT) .show(); showContextMenu(target); } public void showContextMenu(View target) { final PopupMenu popup = new PopupMenu(target.getContext(), target); popup.getMenuInflater().inflate(R.menu.custom_menu, popup.getMenu()); popup.setOnMenuItemClickListener(new OnMenuItemClickListener() { @Override public boolean onMenuItemClick(MenuItem item) { return false; }
    });
