Glycyrrhizin (GL), a major bioactive glycoside of licorice, has been known to enhance the immune response and to ameliorate influenza A virus infection. The effects of GL against mouse tumor were studied in a model in which sarcoma 180 cells were s.c. inoculated into Balb/c mice. GL was intragastrically administered to mice at 10, 50, and 100 mg/kg of body weight one hour before inoculation with sarcoma 180 cells on day 0. Under these conditions, GL significantly inhibited tumor growth when given at the dose of 100 mg/kg before inoculation. The results suggest that the antitumor effect of GL may be explained by a primary action on cellular immunity.Robert Graham (geographer) Robert Graham (September 17, 1886 – August 3, 1982) was an American geographer, historian and author of biographies and books on geography.
