used to fill the cavity in the tooth that has been drilled out during filling. Depending on the complexity of the tooth condition, which is determined by the depth of the cavity and the size of the tooth, the dentist selects the appropriate filling material. The dentist also selects the filling material according to the tooth condition, the oral condition of the patient, and the cost of the filling material. Dental Filling Material Market: Market Players: The dental filling material market is highly fragmented. Market players have developed new techniques, which include: Development of sterilizable composite
